MY RESEARCH OVERVIEW

I try to do relevant systems research. My main goal is to improve (or redesigning) virtualized systems. Regarding the latter intent, since my internship, I work at improving resource sizing and fault tolerance of components in a virtualized infrastructure. Most of my work resulted in hacks in standard open-source operating systems kernels such as Linux and FreeBSD, and standard virtualization systems such as Xen and KVM. These tweaked systems are open-sourced and available to the research community at djobiii2078.github.io/#experience. The work achieved till now has been published in several conferences and workshops, including four (4) major international conferences in the system field. My current work is in the previous ones' continuity, improving and building effective virtualized systems for both IaaS, PaaS, SaaS, and FaaS.

PUBLICATIONS AND SCIENTIFIC PRODUCTION

In the System field, it is much more difficult to get a paper accepted in an outstanding conference than in an outstanding journal. Hence, conferences are most selective than journals (see <https://homes.cs.washington.edu/~mernst/advice/conferences-vs-journals.html>).

Therefore, my research are mainly published in conferences. For the conference rankings, I used the 2019 Australian Ranking (<http://portal.core.edu.au/conf-ranks/>) which ranks conferences and journals with A*, A, B and C.

WORK EXPERIENCE

MAR 2017 SEP 2017	Research Internship IRIT (Institut de Recherche en Informatique de Toulouse) , Toulouse, France Our goal was to revisit the design of type I hypervisors such as Xen in order to propose a scheme for dynamic resource allocation (cpu+memory) for a central component which we referred as the privileged virtual machine (pVM). Furthermore, our design had to take in account novel memory architectures such as NUMA (non-uniform memory architecture) where a distance dimension renders allocation more tricky. Advisors: Prof. Daniel HAGIMONT, Prof. Alain TCHANA, and Ass. Prof Boris TEABE
SEP 2016 MAR 2017	L1 and L2 Teaching ENSP, Yaoundé, Cameroun I gave courses of Operation System to L1 students during the first semester of 2016-2017. I also gave practical courses of Object Oriented Programming and IHM (Interface Homme Machine) to L1 and L2 students respectively during the same semester. Referees: Dr. Batchakui BERNABÉ and Ing. Moubitang
MAY 2016	Student Volunteer ENSP, Yaoundé, Cameroun As a student volunteer, I participated in the set up of the logistic for the symposium organized on the theme "L'apport du Cloud et du Big Data dans l'économie numérique" at ENSP. It lasted 7 days from 14-21 May 2016. Referees: Prof. Alain TCHANA
JUL 2015 OCT 2016	Trainee Internship LIRIMA (Laboratoire International de Recherche en Informatique et Mathématiques Appliquées) , Yaoundé, Cameroun This work was a result of a collaboration between the University of Yaoundé I and Ecole Polytechnique Fédérale de Lausanne (EPFL) under the RESCIF banner. The idea was to design and develop a caching system in order to speed up critical media resources load time for online courses. This enabled students to access these courses despite the low network throughput. The system is currently deployed at the National School of Engineering of Yaoundé and Institut National Polytechnique Félix Houphouët-Boigny (INP-HB) of Yamoussoukro in Ivory-Coast. Advisor: Dr. Batchakui BERNABÉ
JUL 2015 SEP 2015	Trainee Internship Ministry of Defense, Yaoundé, Cameroun We developed a software to enable army instructors to deliver media resources for a course exploitable by military members and track the progress of each member for a given course. The software named HELIOS is currently deployed and used at a military unit carrying the same name HELIOS . Advisor: Eng. Moubitang
